REPORT OF SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The School year, which has just closed, has been one of marked success, there being no unusual disturbance, and the scholars having made good advancement in their studies, as well as improvement in deportment. There have been twenty-four terms of school, or, more properly, twenty-two, the Summer term in Nos. 1 and 7 being divided.

The Registers show a falling off of five per cent. of scholars, from last year, while the average attendance is about the same. Equivalent to thirty per cent. of the average attendance have been perfect for the year, which shows that order can be enforced without detriment to the schools. But for a little animosity to the teacher, in one or two cases, the result would have been much better.

It may be said of the Schools that the discipline has never been better, great care has been taken to have the scholars quiet and orderly and the school-rooms neat and clean. In the few cases where the teachers partially failed in accomplishing this, the fault lay not so much in them, as in the training of the children at home. Much attention has been paid to Penmanship, more than one half of the scholars having attended to this branch. The books shown at the close of the terms have been in a neat condition and have given evidence of improvement.

Map drawing has been successfully taught in several schools, and some of the pupils have become quite expert, the Maps exhibited being very well executed.

In Reading, too, great efforts have been made in most schools, to advance the standing, but here teachers meet a very formidable obstacle in the fact of almost every class being at least one book farther on in the series than it ought. The advanced class in No. 8 in Winter was, we think the best trained of any in town. If Districts would supply the teachers' desks with an Unabridged Dictionary, this branch would be greatly benefited thereby.

TEACHERS.

Our corps of teachers was made up largely of those in our service last year. All were persons of high moral character, conscientious in their duties, and strove to render a full equivalent for their salary.

IN THE SUMMER

All but two of the teachers were parties experienced in the art; and of these two, (those in Nos. 4 and 11) the schools testified that nothing was lost but much gained by allowing them to try.

The school in No. 2 has been in the hands of Miss Boyd for the year, and No. 7 for the last two terms under the charge of Miss Mullins. We consider the connection of these names with a school as teachers a sufficient guaranty of success. Miss Mullins reports Lizzie Emery (ten years old) as having been perfect in every recitation during the Fall term.

When we consider the intense heat of the Summer, we almost wonder how any teacher could keep a school together, or get up sufficient enthusiasm in the pupils to make any progress whatever, but all made a good show at the close though a few were somewhat reduced in numbers. The committee in No. 8 had the good fortune to secure teachers of known merit. Both had long terms and persevered to the last in the maintenance of order, the winter school being the hardest to control, as who would not expect after the encouragement given to the unruly last year! Mr. Frost, however, proved himself equal to the emergency, and, though he had to resort to unusual measures, he brought his school to the desired standard. We think Emma Perkins deserving of mention for her perseverance and punctuality, being neither tardy or dismissed during the term of fifteen weeks, and absent only one day, on account of sickness. The school in No. 10 has been presented with a set of Warren's Outline Charts, by Mr. Alexander Macgregor. A very handsome and timely present. We hope that citizens of other Districts may be moved to add to the apparatus of their school-rooms in a similar manner.

EXAMINATIONS

Have been generally well attended by parents and other citizens, who, no doubt have felt highly gratified with the result of the year's work, and well paid for their time and trouble. The schools have all appeared finely, and the classes have been prompt in recitation, showing that they had a clear understanding of what they had been studying. Then, too, Rhetorical exercises have added greatly, in some cases, to the interest.

TEXT BOOKS.

A change has been made in the Geographys, something that should have been done last year but we were not satisfied just what book was the best, perhaps we have not found it now, but the teachers all express themselves pleased with the change. One advantage gained is the smaller number of books in the series, there being but two, against five or seven of those in use before. A change in Arithmetic should soon follow, a series being taken that will not require so many classes for the accommodation of the scholars.

The following is a list of the text-books now in use : Reader — Hillard's Series ; Grammar — Quackenbos' ; History — do. ; Philosophy — do. ; Geography — Warren's Series ; Arithmetic — Greenleaf's Series ; Colburn's and Emerson's Mental ; Algebra — Robinson's ; Physiology — Cutters ; Speller — Worcester's ; Penmanship — Potter and Hammond's.

SCHOOL-HOUSES.

The school-house in No. 9 has been placed upon a new site and thoroughly repaired. The work was under the supervision of Warren Richardson, who spared no time or pains to give the District as good a house as possible for the amount expended. As a result they now have a house with a fine appearing exterior, and the interior well arranged for the comfort and convenience of scholar and teacher, well supplied with black-boards, and furnished with the best of patent improved desks.

No. 5 also, has had the satisfaction of seeing their house improved in appearance and made comfortable. We know not who had charge of the work, but the indications are, he was Master of the situation.

We feel like saying to Nos. 1, 4 and 11 go and do likewise! why not? Your school-houses can be put in a good state of repair at a moderate expense, and it is safe to say, your schools, with the advantage gained will be enough better to repay you. What is most needed in Nos. 4 and 11 is more room and better ventilation.

PRUDENTIAL COMMITTEES

Have been generally very prompt in the performance of their duties and ready to assist us in ours. Of some, however, we cannot say so much, they having left it to the teachers to notify us of the commencement and close of the schools. We would like to refer such to Chapter 3, Section 27, Digest of School Laws, and would suggest also that they take measures to procure teachers, prior to the day before the schools are to commence.

IN CONCLUSION.

We would thank the teachers for their readiness in acting upon any suggestions of ours in matters of school discipline, and their many efforts to cultivate the moral character of their pupils.

To the parents and other citizens who have encouraged the schools by occasional visits, we would also tender our thanks for their co-operation.

The above with the following Statistics and list of names, is respectfully submitted.
